

This map shows the administrative boundaries of two water management districts in the northern part of Italy, near Lake Garda. The area is divided into two main regions: a pink-shaded region on the left and a yellow-shaded region on the right. A thick green dashed line outlines the entire area shown. A blue line represents a river or canal system running through the center. The map includes numerous small labels for towns and villages, as well as a network of roads and railways. The text 'Consorzio di Bonifica Chiese' is printed in the pink area, and 'Consorzio di Bonifica Garda Chiese' is printed in the yellow area.
